[25.-- (Garry Kasparov) This game was judged the best in the 63rd volume of Informator. I remember Anand with a sad smile observing: The fate of our match will depend on how often Kasparov employs the Evans Gambit.' And I predicted: 'It is probable that now this opening will begin to occur frequently, and much will be determined simply by the method of exhaustive searching.' And, although I was very proud of this win in the style of the old masters, in the match with Anand I played only 3 Bb5 or 3 d4. But the sweeping manner of play in the main, 10th game (Game No. 19) evoked 'Evans-style' ideas. --- After this I reached 2½ out of 3, while Ivanchuk was leading with 3½ out of 4. But then he slowed down and drew all his remaining games, including the one with me in the sixth round, after holding out with difficulty as Black in a King's Indian. I managed, not without a degree of luck, to win with Black against Yusupov and Vaganian, and also in the tenth round with White against the 'home' player Kengis, an old opponent of mine in junior tournaments (just think: our first encounter took place 22 years earlier). This brought me to 'plus five' and first place. --- Anand also produced a finishing spurt. As a result he finished just half a point behind me, so that our duel in the fourth round took on the status of the decisive game of the tournament. Garry Kasparov: 'The chairman of the Tal Memorial organising committee was the Latvian Prime Minister himself, and also present at the opening ceremony were the President of the country and the Russian ambassador! But, alas, the tradition of staging super-tournaments of this standard in Riga was not established. The prominent Baltiya Bank, the main sponsor, soon collapsed and was liquidated... --- After Riga and before our match in the autumn, Anand played only in two Intel Grand Prix knock-out tournaments, whereas I twice took part in 'classical' events. First there was the regular match-tournament in Amsterdam (Euwe Memorial, 11-18 May 1995): 1. Lautier - 4 out of 6; 2. Kasparov - 3½; 3. Topalov - 2½; 4. Piket - 2. It was amusing that up to the last round I copied the previous year's results - draw, two wins, loss, win, but at the end I contrived to lose to Piket and I nevertheless finished behind Lautier. --- 'The root of the trouble lay in accumulated fatigue and many years of lack of training: I was no longer in the habit of aiming for an ultra-complicated battle, where the price of every move is very high', I declared at that time in an interview. 'Positions such as in the game with Piket, where in a Grünfeld White had a passed pawn on d6, were ones that previously I sensed with the tips of my fingers. But now I am committing crude errors... I have got out of the habit of playing with great intensity! This is a warning signal, but it has sounded in time. Now the main thing is to mobilise myself absolutely before the match with Anand.' --- From Amsterdam I travelled to Cologne, where on 20 May I played two 25-minute games with an opponent I had lost to the previous year in London - the program Genius (1½-½). Everything was decided by the dramatic first game. In the opening I felt extremely feverish - the 'Amsterdam wounds' were still painful, and all around there was an incredible hullabaloo. On the 18th move, in a roughly equal position, I made an inexcusable oversight, leading to the loss of a pawn. The machine could take either a 'good', healthy pawn, or a 'bad', doubled one, but leading to an endgame with winning chances. Fortunately, Genius grabbed the 'good' pawn (that was how it was programmed), and I immediately created threats to the black king. After a couple of poor moves the machine came under a 'mortal' pin and could no longer avoid defeat.' Garry Kasparov: 'Alexander Roshal: 'A certain perplexity - why has Kasparov been obviously under-performing in some of the recent events? - may be replaced by understanding, if you glance if only briefly at the champion's schedule during this period: Tal Memorial in Riga, simul' in the British Embassy, active participation in a congress of the Russian Chess Federation, the 'Kremlin stars' tournament, flights - first to Noyabrsk (1200 km. further north than Tyumen), then to Orel, a simul' in the Central Chess Club for veterans of the Great Patriotic War, a blitz-tournament in the same place, the Euwe Memorial in Amsterdam, a mini-match with computers in Cologne, the PCA super-tournament in Novgorod... On 5 May at Moscow airport an excited Kasparov was met by his chauffeur, who said something to him. The champion turned to his companions and sombrely said in a changed voice: "A few hours ago Botvinnik died". To win constantly with such a way of life is almost impossible. "]

A) 6.--;

B) 6.c3 Nf6 7.d3 d6 8.0-0 is more positional and could also arise via 4 d3. Here White has chances for a pull due to his space preponderance.

B1) . For example, after the sluggish 8...h6 9.Nbd2 0-0 10.Bb3 Ne7 11.Nc4 White gains a tempo. In Chapter One we saw that one idea behind an early ... a7-a6 is that the bishop can drop back immediately to a7 avoiding such a loss of time. The game I. Glek-A.Yermolinsky, Wijk aan Zee 1997, continued with Ba7 12.Be3 Be6 13.Bxa7 Rxa7 14.Re1 Ng6 15.d4 Bxc4 16.Bxc4 Ra8 17.Qc2 c6 and White had a small pull.;

B2) . If Black instead decides to castle immediately he has to take into consideration the following pin: 8...0-0 9.Bg5 ( a move tried on several occasions by Yudasin; 9.Nbd2 Ne7 10.Bb3 Ng6 11.Nc4 is a reasonable alternative*)* 9...h6 10.Bh4 g5 11.Bg3 *(*although 11.Nxg5?! would be tempting to attack-minded Evans players, Black can defend: hxg5 12.Bxg5 Kg7 13.Qf3 Rh8 14.a5 Ba7 15.h4 Kg6! and then something like

16.Nd2 Bg4 17.Bxf6 Qd7 18.Qg3 Kxf6 clearly favours Black; compare this with Emms-Flear, where a similar sacrifice on g5 was far more favourable for White ) 11...Bg4 12.h3 Bh5 13.Nbd2 Kh8 with options and thus counter-chances on the kingside, L.Yudasin-A.Sherzer, Washington DC 2002.;

Many Black players decline the Blackmar-Diemer gambit when first faced with it, for fear of walking into a prepared line. C51: Evans Gambit: Declined and Accepted without 5...Ba5
CC HeaderStart CC Defending e5 CC HeaderEnd CC A lot of 1. e4 e5 openings feature the no-nonsense bishop move. One serious consideration is to protect the pawn on e5 to speed up development. Take for instance 7... Bd6 in the Old Arkhangelsk 7. d3 line, getting ready to play ...d7-d5 in one go after castling followed by ...Re8 and ... Bf8. Adams-Malaniuk is a model game for Black's strategy. Very similar, and perhaps theoretically more successful (let's leave the verdict to the various publications on opening theory) is 4... Bd6 in the Four Knights with 4. Bb5. An even fresher recent try is Beinoras's ... Bd6 in the 4. d3 Jaenisch Ruy Lopez, again aiming to castle quickly without having to bother about defending the e5-pawn. Finally, the no-nonsense strategy also enjoyed a modest revival in the Evans Gambit. 1.e4 e5 2.Nf3 Nc6 3.Bc4 Bc5 4.b4 Bxb4 5.c3 Bd6 6.d4 White has compensation. 6...Nf6 7.0-0! 0-0

[Berliner]

Myers: This game is given as #1 by GM Soltis in "The 100 Best Chess Games" and #55 (in date order) by Burgess/Nunn/ Emms in "The World's Greatest Chess Games". In 1998-9, "Chess Mail" readers voted it the best correspondence chess game ever played. /// Soltis: Hans Berliner (1929-) was one of the strongest genuine amateurs in a century that saw chess surge towards professionalism. Born in Berlin, his family emigrated to the United States as World War II approached, and Berliner was naturalized as an American citizen at age 14. Berliner became one of the earliest computer programers [to work on chess playing computers]: he developed a world computer championship program and earned a PhD with a thesis on "Chess as Problem Solving". He also developed a program for backgammon that defeated the reigning World Champion in a seven-point match. Berliner also was [a strong enough over-the-board chess player] to qualifiy for US Champoinships and for the United States team that competed in the 1952 Olympiad. But Berliner turned to postal chess in 1955, and during 1965-1968 he won the 5th World Correspondence Championship with a huge 3-point margin--and then essentially retired from all competition. In this key game from the postal championship, he faced many-time Moscow champion Yakov Estrin, one of the renaissance men of Soviet chess. Estrin (1923-1987) earned the International Master title in over-the-board play and the International Grandmaster and International Arbiter titles in correspondence play, and was an accomplished trainer and prolific writer, particularly on openings. He became the 7th postal World Champion in the 1972-1976 series. 1.e4

Hoffer describes Fritz as "an eminent blindfold player"... "It is to be regertted that Herr Fritz, who is by profession a lawyer, was obliged to relinquish public play temporarily".
Game sent to him by Dr C.Schmid of Dresden, who was featured (pic and profile) in Chess Monthly for December 1892..

[Fraser,TA]

Myers: This is Game #51 published in a book called "A Selection of 200 Games of Chess, Played by Correspondence, with Notes and Critical Remarks by Geo. B. Fraser, Dundee." GBF includes this short preface: "The Games which follow are selected from various Correspondence Tourneys organized under my Conductorship, between the years 1887 and 1896. With few exceptions, none of them have hitherto appeared in print. A large majority will be found to exhibit a pleasing liveliness and animation somewhat unusual in Chess by correspondence." A fair number of these games (33) were played by GBF himself, so it is evident that he was both an avid correspondence player and an early organizer of correspondence chess events. (GBF was also an active OTB player, mainly in Scotland. For example, GBF finished a respectable second in the 1st Scottish Championship, played in Glasgow in 1884, just a half-point behind the winner.) It is not known whether the games are printed in any particular order, and no dates are provided for the games individually. I have somewhat arbitrarily assigned a date of 1890 to each game, for database purposes. 1.e4 Myers Fraser 1...e5 2.Nf3 Nc6 3.Bc4 Bc5 4.b4 Bxb4

[8.a4 is an alternative, though not one that I can recommend. I am not superstitious, but Black has won all the games I have seen from here. For example:

A) 8...Nf6 9.Bb5 a6 10.Bxc6+ bxc6 11.a5 Ba7 12.Qa4 exd4 13.cxd4 Bd7 14.e5 Nd5 15.Ba3 0-0 16.Qc4 Nf4 17.Kh1 (17.exd6 , retaining the pressure, is preferable according to Matsukevich) 17...Be6 18.Qc1 Nxg2 19.Kxg2 Bd5 20.Kg3 f5 21.Nbd2 f4+ 22.Kg2 Qg5+ 23.Kh1 Qh5 24.Qc3 Bxd4 and Black won in St. Petersburg-Vienna, telegraph match 1898.;

[Fraser,TA]

Myers: This is Game #47 published in a book called "A Selection of 200 Games of Chess, Played by Correspondence, with Notes and Critical Remarks by Geo. B. Fraser, Dundee." GBF includes this short preface: "The Games which follow are selected from various Correspondence Tourneys organized under my Conductorship, between the years 1887 and 1896. With few exceptions, none of them have hitherto appeared in print. A large majority will be found to exhibit a pleasing liveliness and animation somewhat unusual in Chess by correspondence." A fair number of these games (33) were played by GBF himself, so it is evident that he was both an avid correspondence player and an early organizer of correspondence chess events. (GBF was also an active OTB player, mainly in Scotland. For example, GBF finished a respectable second in the 1st Scottish Championship, played in Glasgow in 1884, just a half-point behind the winner.) It is not known whether the games are printed in any particular order, and no dates are provided for the games individually. I have somewhat arbitrarily assigned a date of 1890 to each game, for database purposes. As promised in the previous game, we will give a large number of alternatives here, though none of them seems especially appealing for Black:

[9...Nce7 10.e5 and here again Black has a long list of unpleasant alternatives, probably making him wish he had played 9...Na5 instead:

I must admit that I am quite comfortable sharing this opinion with our great grandfathers Paul Morphy and Mikhail Chigorin. 9...Bg4

[Besides this move and 9...Na5 (see the next two games), Black also has the following options:]

[9...Bd7 is perfectly possible. [9...Nf6?! looks dangerous because of 10.e5 dxe5 11.Ba3! when we can imagine the following lines:

A) 11...Na5 (Unzicker's recommendation) 12.Bb5+ c6 13.dxe5 Qxd1 14.Raxd1 Nd7 15.Ne4 Bc5 16.Bxc5 Nxc5 17.Bxc6+ Nxc6 18.Nxc5 and White retains some pressure.;

8.cxd4 Bb6 This could be called the 'standard position' in the Evans Gambit. Standard, that is, for chess games played in the 19th century. In the 20th century it has been limited more to correspondence games, probably because these kind of romantic openings were especially popular in thematic tournaments before the introduction of strong chess-playing programs. Now White has two main options: 9 d5 and 9 Nc3. The first we shall look at now, while the second will be covered in Estrin-Angelov and the two subsequent games. 9.d5 Adolf Anderssen, one of the strongest players in the 19th century, has the copyright of this move. Unfortunately for his family, chess players do not like to pay for intellectual rights... 9...Na5 Other moves are weaker (see the annotations to move 9 in Salygo-Boshoer). 10.Bb2 Ne7 That we are dealing with really old stuff can be seen from the next note:

[Avery]

Avery: In 1894 Walter Penn Shipley organized a tournament under the auspices of the Continental Correspondence Chess Association. By today's standards, the event was fairly small: 70 players divided into five 14-man round-robin sections, with the five section winners playing another round for the championship. The event, won by C. W. Phillips of Chicago, was the largest such event in America to that time; Hermann Helms always referred to it, even 50 years later, as the "the great Continental Chess Association tournament of 1894." Myers: Harding mentions that Dr "Sturm was British consul in Trinidad and an active player in the 1950s." Harding identifies Black as "Mr Lee Magee of Kansas." Sturm; Harding & Cafferty: 'Sturm was British consul in Trinidad and an active player in the 1950s. This game is rather famous. It appeared in Mail Chess (Dec 1951) under the headline: 'A Sensational Discovery in the Evans Gambit - the "Rubicon" Variation'. Sturm wrote about it again in Correspondence Chess, January 1954 with a longer and revised set of notes in CC July 1956..

GBR corr 1890

[Fraser,TA]

Myers: This is Game #64 published in a book called "A Selection of 200 Games of Chess, Played by Correspondence, with Notes and Critical Remarks by Geo. B. Fraser, Dundee." GBF includes this short preface: "The Games which follow are selected from various Correspondence Tourneys organized under my Conductorship, between the years 1887 and 1896. With few exceptions, none of them have hitherto appeared in print. A large majority will be found to exhibit a pleasing liveliness and animation somewhat unusual in Chess by correspondence." A fair number of these games (33) were played by GBF himself, so it is evident that he was both an avid correspondence player and an early organizer of correspondence chess events. (GBF was also an active OTB player, mainly in Scotland. For example, GBF finished a respectable second in the 1st Scottish Championship, played in Glasgow in 1884, just a half-point behind the winner.) It is not known whether the games are printed in any particular order, and no dates are provided for the games individually. I have somewhat arbitrarily assigned a date of 1890 to each game, for database purposes. 1.e4 Fraser #64 Myers Fraser 1...e5 2.Nf3 Nc6 3.Bc4 Bc5 4.b4 Bxb4 5.c3 Ba5 6.d4 b5!?N Fraser #64: 'An ingenious counter gambit suggested by Mr Baxter' 7.Bd5 Fraser #64: '!'
